

Dennis Burbank, Recruiting Field Director

Northwestern Mutual

Dennis, a 1991 graduate from Oklahoma State University, joined Northwestern Mutual as a “career-changer” in 2008 after moving home to Oklahoma from Florida where he served as Director of National Corporate Partnerships for the NBA’s Miami Heat. Dennis earned his degree in Political Science at OSU and has spent the majority of his working career in Sports Marketing, Business & Corporate Development. Dennis, a Recruiting Field Director with Northwestern Mutual, runs the Midtown OKC District office where he has achieved numerous accolades including FORUM, NML’s most prestigious award and “Million Dollar Round Table” – representing the top 1% of financial advisors in the world.

A two-sport letterman at Oklahoma State, Dennis played basketball for Eddie Sutton and baseball for Gary Ward earning the opportunity to play in the 1990 NCAA College World Series in Omaha and the 1991 NCAA Basketball Tournament where the Cowboys advanced to the Sweet-16. Selected on three occasions in the Major League Baseball draft, Dennis signed and played professional baseball in the NY Yankees organization finishing his playing career in Sioux City, Iowa in 1994.

Dennis and his wife Julie, who started at Shortstop for 4-years at the University of Oklahoma, have two children – daughter Jordan is 14-years old and son Drew is 10-years old. Dennis has served on the Boards of the Oklahoma City All-Sports Association, Edmond All Sports and is currently President of the OKC Board of Directors for National Association of Insurance and Financial Advisors (NAIFA) and sits on the Advisory Council of the OSU Alumni Association. Julie and Dennis enjoy scuba diving and traveling when not chasing Jordan and Drew around on the soccer field, baseball diamond, or basketball court!