"In a world that is becoming increasingly more globalized, I feel that the subjects I am studying as an international business major will be of incredible value when I graduate. I love that, as an international business major, not only do I learn about global business practices in the classroom, but I have also had many opportunities to experience and test my knowledge in real world situations while interning in the Czech Republic and studying abroad in France. Being an international business major isn't just learning business: it's also learning about cultures, people, politics, religions, and more. I can't wait to see where my experiences and knowledge gained as an international business major will take me next!"
